

About Mezzanines

Turn Empty Overhead Space Into Productive New Work or Storage Area!

Mezzanines allow you to gain the space you need without incurring the cost of new building construction or leasing. These versatile structures create new areas for manufacturing, storage, and offices "out of thin air." Each mezzanine is engineered to provide a solution to your specific space requirements. Our design philosophy focuses on how we can help you utilize the mezzanine so that it will provide the proper performance in a safe, efficient work environment.

Belcher Equipment can also be your single source for creating complete space utilization solutions that require both mezzanines and modular building systems. This single-source ability provides greater engineering control and enables us to coordinate all aspects of projects with our distributors. The result is a fully functional installation delivered complete and on time.
